SELECT LIST OF CHOICE FLOWER SEEDS

I Love Flowers; Don't You?

My flower seeds are as good as any that can be procured of any reliable seedsman. I am satisfied that my customers will find that the following list can be relied upon, and are sure to give satisfaction if properly cared for. Yet I cannot be responsible for their growing, as there are so many ways in which good seed can be destroyed; such as cold wet weather, hot dry weather, or very fine seed that should be sown on the finest of ground and scarcely covered at all are buried under an inch of heavy clods, and of course it is impossible for them to grow under such conditions. The soil adapted to flowering plants is generally a light, moderately rich loam, containing a sufficient amount of sand to make it friable.

While some seed need special treatment, the following general rules will apply to all: Make the surface as fine and smooth as possible: do not plant any seeds when the ground is wet; cover each lot of seeds to a uniform depth, which should never be more than three or four times the diameter of the seed; press the soil firmly over the seeds, plant in rows so that the young plants can be easily seen, and pull up all weeds as soon as they appear.

NOTE.—Annuals bloom the first year from seed and then perish. Perennials generally do not bloom till the second year, and then live and bloom for a number of years. H. A. stands for Hardy Annual. H. THE

FRUIT GROWERS' JOURNAL

National Organ of the Fruit and Vegetable Growers of the United States.

Is a Large, Six-Column, Eight-Page Paper,

Published monthly at Cobden, Illinois, the center of the fruitgrowing interests of the West. Its editor is, and has been for more than thirty-eight years, a grower of fruits and vegetables for market purposes, and knows from practical experience the fruit-growers' needs. It deals with every phase of the fruit and vegetable industry from the field to the market, including varieties, cultivation, transportation, and the final sale in the market. It tells the growers who they may safely send their goods to in the cities of the country, guards them from the wiles of the "snide" commission houses, and gives just the information the grower needs, whether he be an amateur or a professional, an orchardist, vinevardist, a plant or berry grower or market gardener. It is not only invaluable to the farm, but is a welcome visitor in every family circle it has ever entered. It also has a department in which advice and prescriptions are given for the treatment of the simpler ills and chronic affections, which are everywhere a heritage of the human family. For this work the editor is especially qualified by an experience of nearly fifty years as a practicing physician.

THE JOURNAL is published at the nominal price of 50c.
